Elisabeth Slate joins Presbyterian Children's Village as a Clinical Supervisor for the Behavioral Health Program

(Rosemont, PA) Presbyterian Children's Village is pleased to announce the Elisabeth Slate, Ph.D. has joined the staff as a Clinical Supervisor for Behavioral Health Services.

Slate, a licensed psychologist and social worker, comes to the Village from private practice with Main Line Clinical Associates in Wayne, PA. She has previously worked for Children's Choice, Intercommunity Action, Friendship Hospital, Children's Hospital of Philadelphia in Philadelphia, and Family Support Services in Upper Darby, PA. She received her undergraduate degree from Cornell University, her Masters in Social Work and Masters in Secondary Education from the University of Michigan and her doctorate in psychology from Temple University. She is a graduate of Radnor High School. Her professional memberships include the American Psychology Association, the Pennsylvania Psychology Association and the Philadelphia Society of Clinical Psychologists.

Presbyterian Children's Village has been providing intensive behavioral health services to children and teens since 1984. The Village provides these services for children and families at the agency through our Outpatient Clinic, located at the Preheim Center in Southwest Philadelphia.

Founded as an orphanage in 1877, Presbyterian Children's Village today is a non-profit corporation dedicated to the healing of the spirits of children, families and communities broken by violence, addiction, poverty, mental illness, racism and other serious societal problems. The Village serves more than 7,000 children each year in the greater Philadelphia area.
